Understanding the concepts of Training Within Industry and Standardised Work

Author: Ross Kennedy

Think of your workplace like a garden – either overgrown with weeds or in good order. Every day weeds grow in a garden like deviations occurring in a workplace. Unless the deviations are addressed daily by Frontline Leaders, the workplace will be overrun with deviations like a garden being overgrown with weeds.

The aim of this paper is to review where Training Within Industry and Standardised Work fits into the Australasian TPM & Lean Journey to Operational Excellence and provide an overview of how to apply these important concepts and tools. In other words:

How best do we train and develop Frontline Leaders and Operators to obtain a high level of Base Skills

When and how do we establish Standardised Work
